

POLS 215
GENDER & POWER DYNAMICS IN LATIN AMERICA

FALL SEMESTER

Key Topics

- Gendered political movements and revolutions
- The role of women and LGBTQ+ activists in social change
- Intersectionality: Race, class, and gender in Latin America
- Policies impacting gender equity and social justice
- Case studies on influential figures and grassroots organizations

Course Format

The class will meet twice weekly, with a mix of lectures, discussions, and group activities. Students are encouraged to engage in critical discussions and explore case studies that highlight both challenges and achievements in gender and power dynamics in Latin America.

Join us in exploring the forces shaping gender and power in one of the world's most dynamic regions!
